Expedia Group takes necessary measures to ensure that our data processors are responsibly chosen and are under appropriate contractual measures, including measures covering data transfers overseas to ensure that data is safely protected in accordance with applicable laws and internal policies.

Please refer to our privacy statement for more information about the data we collect and the purposes we use it for. The following list of third parties is subject to change and users must check the website for changes.

All data processed by these third parties will either be processed in the country of origin or be transferred to servers in the US.

For more information on our connectivity providers, please see here.

For information on our hotels, airlines and other travel suppliers, please refer to our site for further information. Your data will only be shared with such travel suppliers upon booking with a specific third party listed upon your consent.

Your consent will be requested before we provide your information to such third parties.

You may refuse the overseas transfer of personal information via the Privacy Officer and the relevant Office. In the event that you refuse the overseas transfer of your personal information, we will exclude your personal information from overseas transfers; provided, however, that, in such event, you will be unable to use the services that require overseas transfer of your personal information.

2. PROVISION

We share personal information with travel-related suppliers which fulfill our customers' booking. Such transfer is required to facilitate bookings as well as provide the travel or associated services. We work with a very large number of travel suppliers, which would be impossible to list here, but essentially, "travel suppliers" here would refer to hotels, airlines, car-rental companies, insurance, vacation-rental property owners and managers, and where available, activity providers, rail, or cruise lines. We practice data minimalization, where only the minimum data required for our travel suppliers only to fulfil our customers' booking is transferred (i.e., data relating to customers' basic identity). Please note that we only transfer your personal information only to the specific travel supplier you actually book, not to other travel suppliers. We provide a checkbox to obtain your explicit consent on such transfer of your personal information to the travel provider you selected, for you to see on the checkout page as you finalize your booking on our website/application.
